

Weekly Report

Last Week's Goals

Our goals this week consists of getting completing UI and functionality for the trade requests screen and item browsing screen. We're currently preparing for the beta release presentation. We also plan on improving and creating more tests.

Progress We Made This Week

- This week, we completed all of our needed features. The front end and back end provide all necessary functionality (editing your profile, adding inventory, browsing for other users, and managing trades).
- We continued to work together in person, because it has improved our productivity and communication.
- The entire team has downloaded the app and used it.
- We completed the tests and code coverage for the entire system. This has improved development because now we can run the tests to make sure everything is working every time we make a change instead of testing in postman and manually using the app.
- We increased our use of Github Issues to track features and bugs which has been much more effective than sending Slack messages.

Goals

All of this work will be done by the team together:

- Resolve Github Issues
 - Usability improvements
 - Address edge cases that crash the app
 - Internal refactoring
- Extension features
 - Browse matches
- Exchange code reviews on important parts of the code
- Conduct user testing
